Advance Directives

February 2, 2005

Presenter: Jan McGee, Kansas City Hospice

The process of establishing advance directives may be difficult. It requires one to think about individual priorities regarding quality of life and the potential for death. Treatment options, as well as their possible influence on quality of life measures, need to be fully understood and considered. Join us for this presentation and find out everything you wanted to know but were afraid to ask.
